AUSTRIA HURRIEDLY APOLOGIZES TO THOROUGHLY AROUSED ITALIANS

By Associated Press.

London, October 1.—All the brilliantly skillful tactics employed by General von Kluck, the commander of the German right wing, to counter or break through the fence of bayonets constantly reaching northward beyond his extreme right, have thus far failed. These efforts, however, have by no means ceased and the German general staff, it is felt in London, probably will risk something else there in order to reinforce this wing before the end of the chapter is written. Heretofore, reinforcements have been met by reinforcements in this critical quarter of the battlefield.

The Germans nearly got through the allied wing near Albert, but after two days of fierce struggle for the mastery, they failed. These incessant assaults on the part of the Germans have, according to the allied commander, whose reports are augmented by statements from independent sources, cost the assailants such appalling losses in men that even allowing for reinforcements, their ranks must have been materially weakened.

The announcement from France of the recreation of the post of Marshal of France, coming simultaneously with the report of General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces, of the satisfactory condition along the entire battle line, has been hailed by the allies as peculiarly significant.

In the eastern field, the German navy is showing increased activity on the Baltic coast. It is in readiness to support German land forces if they succeed in forcing the passage of the river Nieman.

In the meanwhile, there has come to London news that within a week a new Russian army, a million strong, will join the present armies in Poland and Galicia for "Russia's principal attack on Germany."

"We have, nevertheless," says the statement, "made progress on our left to the north of Somme, and on our right, in the southern Woëvre district." This was the brief announcement from Paris which affords the only light official sources throw on the great struggle in northern France today. London and Berlin were still silent in the late afternoon and what unofficial reports reached this country by way of the capitals of the belligerents contained little to indicate the course of events on the different battlefields. Not since the war began has the censorship been so severe.

ATTACK CONTINUES

London, Oct. 1.—An official communication issued at Antwerp, according to a dispatch to Reuters Telegraph Company, says:

"The German artillery, during the day, continued the bombardment of the first line of forts on the south. Our works suffered little and we are still in condition to make effective resistance."

FRENCH OFFICIALLY REPORT ADVANCEMENT

By Associated Press.

Paris, October 1.—The following official communication was given out here this afternoon:

"There has been no modification in the general situation. We have, nevertheless, made progress on our left, to the north of the Somme, and on our right in the southern Woëvre district."

AUSTRIA RENDERS APOLOGY

Rome, Italy, Oct. 1.—The Austrian government has replied to the Italian protest against the floating mines in the Adriatic Sea. Austria deplors the sinking of the Italian vessel and promises to take measures to remove the menace to shipping and to fully indemnify the families of the victims. It is reported that Italy demands an indemnity from Austria of $1,000,000.

MORE NAMES ADDED TO LIST OF SLAIN

Berlin, via the Hague and London, October 1.—The 38th German casualty list, made public today, contains about 8,000 names. It included three major generals, one killed and two wounded. Major General Scherbening was killed, while Major General Emil Henigst was slightly and Major General Oskar Reuter was dangerously wounded.

ATTACK REPULSED CLAIMS BERLIN

By Associated Press.

London, Oct. 1.—An official statement, issued by the German general headquarters under date of the evening of September 30, is given in a dispatch to Reuters Telegraph Company from Berlin, by way of Amsterdam. It says:

"The hostile forces advancing to the north and south of Albert (a town of France, 18 miles northwest of Amiens), have been repulsed. The front battle line is without news. In Argonne our attack is progressing steadily, though slowly. At the

GENERAL ILL

By Associated Press.

Paris, Oct. 1.—It is officially announced by Austria-Hungary, says a dispatch from Rome, that General Von Auffenburg, commanding the first Austrian army, is ill.

General Von Auffenburg, who was minister of war in the Austrian cabinet, was in command of the first Austrian army when the war broke out. With the army of General Dankl he began an offensive campaign in Russian-Poland, and had some preliminary successes, invading Russian territory as far as Lublin, only to fall back toward Cracow, where his army now is supposed to be.

AFTER FACTS ABOUT LABOR

By Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 1.—The Rockefeller Institute announced today that it had decided to make a far reaching investigation of industrial conditions in this country, and that it had retained the services of W. L. Mackenzie King, former minister of labor in Canada, as director of the investigation.

AGAINST INDEPENDENCE OF THE PHILIPPINES

By Associated Press.

Washington, October 1.—Republican Leader Mann, opposing the Philippine Independence Bill in the House today declared he favored "retaining supremacy on the fighting ground of the future—the Pacific ocean." He declared that the conflict "commercial or otherwise, that is inevitable between the far east and the far west, will be across the Pacific ocean."

"If we let the Philippines go today without a string tied to them," he added, "they will belong to some other country within ten years, and if they become independent and keep so for years they will be used against the United States eventually." Mr. Mann said he was against independence, even with conditions and was not sure he favored even a naval station there in the event of independence.

"Let China or Japan or Germany or Great Britain take them in that event," he said.

TAX AUTOS AND OFFICIALS

By Associated Press.

Washington, October 1.—Democrats of the Senate Sub-Committee on Finance voted today to substitute for the 2 cents a gallon on gasoline, in the war revenue bill, a tax on owners of 25 cents per horse power on automobiles, and $1 per horse power on automobile sales by manufacturers. The committee estimates that would yield an annual revenue of $16,000,000. Senator Williams introduced amendments to tax government employees except the President, Supreme court justices and congressmen, one-half of one per cent of their salaries and to eliminate the tax casualty and accident insurance.

MONEY NOT TO ADORN VAULTS

Washington, October 1.—Endorsing Secretary McAdoo's action in withdrawing crop moving funds from certain banks, President Wilson declared today that those banks were not using the money for the object for which it was deposited. He remarked the money was not put in the banks to "adorn the vaults."

EXPECTS CARRANZA TO RESIGN

By Associated Press.

Washington, October 1.—General Carranza's resignation, generally expected today as a step in healing the breach with General Villa and his followers, may not take place until after the conference of military chiefs seeking to compose the differences, finishes its work at Zacatecas. The conference was expected to assemble today. Information here was that its sole purpose is to satisfy the demands of Villa. Chief among these is Carranza's resignation and, while that may be pledged, it was said Carranza would probably follow his original plan of not actually giving up his place until the Mexico City convention chooses a provisional president.

Communications from Mexico, slow in transmission and hampered by a rigid censorship, shed no light on whether this convention, also called for today, would begin sessions, or whether it would be delayed to wait the outcome of the Zacatecas conference.

AN ARMISTICE

By Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, October 1.—Luis Aguirre Bonavides, secretary to General Villa, under date of September 30, telegraphed the Associated Press that an armistice had been declared through Mexico, with Aguas Calientes as a neutral zone. He said also that elections would be held, according to the first agreement, from October 5 to 10.

JAPS AND GERMANS ENGAGED

By Associated Press.

Tokio, Japan, Oct. 1.—A severe engagement has been opened by the German warships which cannonaded the Japanese positions near Tsing-Tau, east of the government of Kiaochow, the German leased territory in China. Two officers were killed. German aeroplanes assisted the warships.

The Japanese war office announces that the artillery duel at Tsing-Tau continues. A German torpedo boat destroyer sank in the harbor yesterday, Wednesday. Apparently this ship was not in action.

From other sources it is stated that the German destroyer was sunk by Japanese siege guns.

It was officially announced late this afternoon that a Japanese mine sweeper, off Kiaochow, was blown up and sunk. Three men were killed and 13 others wounded. Another Japanese mine sweeper was damaged, one man being killed and 6 injured.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Representative Rupley introduced in the house a bill amendatory of the interstate commerce law of 1887, under the terms of which the federal government may eventually become the owner of all the common carriers of the United States.

Mr. Rupley's bill provides that after the physical valuation of the railways has been ascertained by the interstate commerce commission the government may purchase at the price set as the actual valuation of the lines. It further provides that if at the expiration of ninety days from the offer to the railways of the price set the railways decline to sell their lines, the government may enter the open market for the purchase of such stocks, bonds and other securities of the lines as may be necessary to obtain control.

Credit For The Rich Children

It was one of Ohio's gifted orators who, several years ago, speaking in New York state added to his already splendid reputation as a thinker and an orator by uttering this startling sentence, "God help the children of the rich, the poor can work".

The man who uttered that sentence was a radical—considered much more radical, by comparison, at that time than he is considered today.

The effect of that utterance upon the large audience, which had gathered to hear the noted speaker, was remarkable. At first the full significance of that short, terse, even blunt sentence was not grasped by his auditors, in fact, as the speaker stated afterwards, not fully realized even by himself.

Under the inspiration of the moment, enthused by his subject and by the great sympathetic audience, the speaker had simply put a great thought into words.

The words were new to both speaker and audience, but the thought was old to men who had been giving industrial and moral conditions serious consideration. Uttering that sentence made the orator more famous than ever before.

It presented an old idea in understandable form—it was sufficiently startling to drive home the great truth which it expressed, has brought realization to thousands upon thousands of thinking people and was sufficient to attract the attention of other thousands of unthinking people.

The truth expressed in that one sentence is simply this—that the rich boy and girl are more frequently in need of the helping hand, in more danger of taking the downward path than the poor boy and girl.

Public approval is generously bestowed upon the poor boy or girl who in spite of privations and enforced denials in early life, make a success in the world. Public approval should be bestowed with equal freedom upon the rich boy or girl who in spite of every advantage which comes to them without effort, makes a success of life and plays a part in the work of the world.

There is really nothing more to be admired than the boy who has every comfort and luxury without effort and yet becomes an industrious, hard working, successful citizen. The boy who works when he is not required to work, the man who undertakes big tasks in the world of business or in the field of politics, when he is not required to, in order to obtain the necessities of life, is certainly entitled to as much credit as the boy who has been compelled by stern poverty to be industrious during his entire life.

No one should withhold one bit of praise for the poor boy who succeeds in life, but along with him in public favor should go that other boy who works, not because he is compelled to, but because he wants to work.

Material prosperity of a nation and a people is much to be desired and much sought after, but possession of an abundance of material carries with it its full quota of danger. The possession of an abundance and more than an abundance of worldly goods tends, all too frequently, to idleness and over-indulgence. Possession of great riches is one of the gravest dangers to which children can be subjected, and the children who survive and succeed in spite of the handicap of wealth are entitled to admiration. Possession of riches permits an indulgence which is destructive of ambition. Rich parents should help their children by restraining and denying them the opportunity which permits full rein to an inclination to indulge every desire.

The children of the rich need help, as well as the children of the poor who always have the great help of being compelled to work.

Poetry For Today

INDIAN SUMMER.

Lyric night of the lingering Indian summer,
Shadowy fields that are scentless but full of singing.
Never a bird, but the passionless chant of insects,
Ceaseless, insistent.

The grasshopper's horn, and far-off, high in the maples,
The wheel of a locust leisurely grinding the silence
Under a moon waning and worn, broken,
Tired with summer.
Let me remember you, voices of little insects,
Weeds in the moonlight, fields that are tangled with asters,
Let me remember, soon will the winter be on us,
Snow-hushed and heavy.

Over my soul murmur your mute benediction,
While I gaze, O fields that rest after harvest,
As those who part look long in the eyes they lean to,
Lest they forget them.

A LITERARY GLUTTON.

Magliabecchi Was Too Busy With His Books to Draw His Salary.

The most picturesque figure in the annals of Italian librarianship is undoubtedly Antonio Magliabecchi. While his official position as librarian to Cosmo III, grand duke of Tuscany, gave him considerable prominence, he is remembered more especially for his personal characteristics and his vast store of self acquired learning. He has been described as a literary glutton and the most rational of bibliomaniacs, inasmuch as he read everything he bought. His own library consisted of 40,000 books and 10,000 manuscripts. His house literally overflowed with books. The stairways were lined with them, and they even filled the front porch. In worldly matters Magliabecchi was extremely negligent. He even forgot to draw his salary for over a year, says the North American Review. He wore his clothes until they fell from him and thought it a great waste of time to undress at night, "life being so short and books so plentiful." He welcomed all inquiring scholars provided they did not disturb him while at work.

Perhaps the most extraordinary librarianship was that enjoyed by Diderot, who about 1765 decided to sell his library in order to provide a dowry for his daughter. The Empress Catherine of Russia heard through Grimm of the straits to which Diderot had been reduced and instructed her agent to buy in the library at the owner's valuation. In this way Diderot received not only 16,000 livres, but he was graciously requested to consider himself the librarian of the new purchase at a salary of 1,000 livres a year. Moreover—and this begins to sound like a fairy tale—Diderot was paid the salary for fifty years in advance.

The Tragedy of Being Twenty-eight

The Way One Proposal Was Developed.

By STUART B. STONE.

Colonel John Andrew Findlay was a swaggering young dog of sixty, and Mr. Thomas, his son, was as old as twenty-eight.

The colonel had proposed just eight times to Miss Edwina Lincoln, his delightful little scamp of a daughter, a wealthy ward, whereas Mr. Thomas, being all of twenty-eight and extremely serious, would never have dreamed of the thing.

The colonel began the business when Miss Edwina began to stick up her chestnut hair, as do young ladies when they attain delectable sixteen. The colonel, though fifty-five at the time, had nothing to his credit in the way of discovery, invention or production; but, then, the colonel did not stop for a little thing like that.

"I know I'm old"—explained Colonel John Andrew, and Miss Edwina interrupted: "You're not—you're not old!" she cried in heated denial, for they were comrades of years and had enjoyed many great times and jolly romps together.

"Then," said the colonel, optimistic as Old King Cole, "you will have me, Edwina, when you are a couple of years older?"

Edwina laughed and half cried, informed the colonel that he was a dear old classmate of Methusalem and ended up by kissing him, while he patted the newly heaped lady hair. After that Edwina sought out Master Thomas, pottering about his maze of a mathematical theory.

"How old are you, Tom?" she asked, though she knew like A B C. "Twenty-three," answered Tom soberly as he went on figuring. "Twenty-three," he repeated, with a solemn look at Edwina, perched upon a table of matted formulae. "Getting older every day, Edwina, and nothing to show for the years." He gloomed at her like Jupiter displeased, and she went out and dimmed her big brown eyes with tears.

The colonel continued to entertain the fondest, rose tinted hopes, which he carefully announced as often as possible. Miss Edwina persisted in becoming more entrancingly lovely day by day. Tom went on working over stupid figures. And when Edwina, radiant and beaming with the glory of another year east behind with the despised giddings of childhood, came to announce her seventeenth birthday the colonel proposed again. He couldn't help it—dear soul. Edwina twined his nose, puffed him an ethereal little kiss and scampered from the room, laughing.

"By the eternal!" murmured Colonel John Andrew when she left him with his hands still in the attitude of dramatic pleading. "Now, wouldn't she and I make a pair of high steppers in the beauty show on the avenue of evenings?" Then he tiptoed over to an old trunk and looked for a long while at the picture of a kindly, faded lady in a locket.

Edwina had gone to the library, where she lolled upon a desk covered with gay equations in algebra.

"Tom," she asked softly, "did you know I was seventeen?"

Tom nodded. "Yes, I know, Edwina. I'm keeping track of these things."

"Tom"—she persisted, and he ceased his calculations and turned his dark, solemn eyes on her.

"Tom," she asked, "are you ever-do you expect ever to get married?"

Tom blushed and turned away to his papers. "I am twenty-four, Edwina," he declared in slightly trembling tones, "and I have achieved nothing. How could I think of—"

He stopped at that, and Edwina slipped up to her pinkish boudoir and wept softly for perhaps five minutes.

When Edwina ripened into charming eighteen and after the colonel's third fervent proposal the light in her brown eyes, the gold brown glint of her hair and the note of her clear young voice became a topic here and there, and wooers could no longer be held back from the threshold.

The colonel eyed them balefully, then slapped them on their young backs and adjured the best man to win. Master Tom, with the tragedy of twenty-five, six and seven bowing his handsome curly head, worked with his noxious mathematics and worried over the respective merits of Edwina's army of sighing Romeo chaps.

remarked that he acted as if he were a hundred and twenty-eight. And Tom, much puzzled, allowed a precious mathematical thought to evaporate while he sought out Colonel John Andrew.

"It is about Edwina's future," began Tom. "She is twenty-one now, and I am worried."

"Oh, don't worry!" exploded the colonel. "I never did in my life, and look at me." And the colonel noted in the mirror how kindly the scythe bearer really had been to him.

"But she will necessarily be marrying," continued Master Tom.

"Of course," Colonel John Andrew acquiesced softly, while a mellow glow came into his good, hale eyes.

"There's young Shipley," suggested Tom.

"Milk and water," snapped the colonel. "She's too good for a million like him."

"She's too good for any of them," said Tom, "but we must see that she gets the best. Now, there's Landis."

"Wooden headed as any Indian cigar sign," objected the colonel. He objected to all the other callow ones until Tom in perplexity demanded, "What then?"

"What then?" snapped Colonel John Andrew. "Why, before our little Edwina shall tie herself to any of these I'll go downstairs and propose myself. And the colonel went. Tom followed.

"Is it because I am too old?" the colonel asked Edwina as soon as he saw her, assuming a tone of ineffable sorrow.

Edwina shook her pretty head. "I like people who are old—a little bit old," she declared.

"I know I have never accomplished anything," continued the colonel, "save to ride a prancing cob or to lead a cotillion as it should be led."

"I don't care—I don't care for that!" exclaimed Edwina, with more vehemence than seemed necessary. "Tom is always talking about being old, but I like him better than if he had down around Mars."

Tom started, blushing, and the colonel squinted at them both.

"I'm—I'm"—stammered Tom, but Edwina impatiently waved him into silence.

"Oh, you're twenty-eight," she said in exasperation. "It's simply horrible! Just think, you'll be twenty-nine some day!"

Colonel John Andrew swallowed something, underwent another change of expression, sighed with final resignation and relief and smiled. "Then it is to be Shipley or Landis or young Gregg?" he asked.

"No, no, no," exclaimed Edwina, red and desperate, "nor any of the silly, immature flock!"

"Then, in the name of Cupid, who?" demanded Colonel John Andrew.

"Oh, I suppose it's to be no one," quavered Edwina, with a little look at Tom on the settee. Then she made for the door, all ready for tears once more.

"Tom," thundered Colonel John Andrew, "arise and ask that young lady to marry you." Edwina turned half expectantly.

"Great Caesar, father," cried Tom, "I'm twenty-eight!"

"See there," said Edwina, wheeling. "Wait, Edwina," called Tom, and the girl dallied at the foot of the stairs.

Tom stumbled blunderingly up to her. "You don't mind my age," he asked, "or the fact that I have done nothing worth while for the world?"

"Oh, sugar!" said Edwina, in dead earnest. "Why, look at the colonel, Tom!"

The colonel winced, but continued his beaming smile, and Tom, regarding the flustered, happy girl, reached over and kissed Edwina on her trembling red lips, and then the colonel came and kissed them both.

It was a queer little proposal and rather a difficult matter to figure out whether the colonel or Tom or Edwina did the asking, maybe, but it held. And anyway it was a happy ending. So possibly it was the best that could have been devised.

England Has Been Jealous of Germany's Rise In Commercial World

By the Rev. A. B. MOLENKE, Pastor St. Peter's German Lutheran Church, New York

DURING THE LAST FEW YEARS ENGLAND HAS BEEN JEALOUS OF GERMANY'S RISE IN THE COMMERCIAL WORLD AND TO CRIPPLE HER AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE DEMANDED OF JAPAN THAT IT ENTER THE FIGHT AND TAKE GERMANY'S POSSESSIONS IN THE FAR EAST. IF ENGLAND WOULD DO IT, SHE WOULD BE GLAD TO EMBROIL THE UNITED STATES IN THE WAR, BUT THIS COUNTRY WILL NOT GET INTO IT UNLESS SOMETHING NOW ENTIRELY UNFORESEEN HAPPENS.

German-Americans should not attack the American press for publishing the allies' war stories. It should be remembered that all of the cable dispatches and news stories are coming from London and Paris.

THERE IS SOMETHING INTERESTING ABOUT THE WAY THE WHOLE WORLD PRACTICALLY IS ARRAYED AGAINST THE GERMAN EMPIRE. WHY DO THEY FEAR GERMANY? THERE IS BUT ONE ANSWER. THEY ARE JEALOUS. GERMANY WILL NOT ADMIT DEFEAT. IT WILL FIGHT AS LONG AS ONE GERMAN SOLDIER REMAINS.

PRAISES LOCAL Y. M. C. A. AND DISCUSSES "Y" WORK

Flattering Remarks From Man Who Is Authority in Y. M. C. A. Circles—Meetings Continue With Much Good Coming From Them—George McDill, Executive Secretary of the Central West, Talks.

"This is the first time I have had the pleasure of visiting the Washington Court House Y. M. C. A., and I assure you it has been a pleasure." This was the flattering expression of Mr. George D. McDill, executive Y. M. C. A. secretary of the central west who departed Wednesday evening after a visit of thirty-six hours here, in which time he participated in the "committee week" sessions now in progress at the local Association.

"For a city of this size, you have one of the best institutions I have ever seen and the community can well be proud of it. Although I have not had opportunity to look over the city itself, I should say that, from what I have seen of it, the handsome Y. M. C. A. building is quite in keeping with its surroundings."

Coming from such a source these opinions bear weight and their utterance should quicken the pride of every Fayette countian. Mr. McDill is a man whose duties take him over a wide area, and the fact that he is one of the five executive secretaries in the United States whose territory extends over the country entire, bears proof of his expert knowledge of Y. M. C. A. work and the many and varied conditions surrounding it.

The position of executive secretary he said in explanation, is one created last year at the national conference of the Y. M. C. A. in Cincinnati. It was decided at that time to choose five of the most efficient Y. M. C. A. men in the country to supervise the five districts, then created, covering every state in the Union. The task of proper selection was difficult and to date but three have been chosen. Among these is Mr. McDill, a man of seventeen years' executive experience in the association work. His territory includes twelve states, centrally located, stretching between Ohio and the Rocky mountains.

Until a month ago Mr. McDill has resided at Geneva, Ills. Since that time he has removed his family to Oberlin, O., where he will take up his permanent residence, and it is not unlikely that he will find it convenient to visit the local Y. M. C. A. occasionally.

"Ohio is about the best state in my territory," said Mr. McDill. "The Y. M. C. A. is strongly established in the Buckeye state and the large chain of associations run along like a great, well-oiled machine, under the expert and systematic supervision of Secretary Lichty. It is in the states further west, the Dakotas, for instance, where I find most work awaiting me. There, the Y. M. C. A. is practically in its infancy and needs considerable nurturing. I find that it responds well to treatment, however, and it is only a question of time when, through the splendid effort of Association men in these fields, will result in their becoming worthy rivals of the more solid organizations of the east."

"The work of the Y. M. C. A. has advanced rapidly during the past few years and with its advance comes the new type of executive that makes for its further and more effective progress. By executive, I refer particularly to the local secretary. It is coming to the point where the local general secretary must be not only a man of high ideals and religious purpose, but an expert business manager as well. This is the type of executive that controls the larger city organizations and many of the smaller. I believe this is the type of man Washington has in its present secretary, Mr. Patton."

Sessions Close Tomorrow.
The daily committee sessions, which have been in progress all week, will close tomorrow evening at a general supper to be attended by all committees at 6 o'clock. At this meeting, the various committees, all of whom have or will have planned their season's work in its entirety, will get together in one general organization.

All day Thursday the religious work committee has been in session with various ministers of the county and lay church workers. The guest of this meeting is Mr. E. J. Hart, of Cleveland, one of the first city's prominent lawyers and foremost Association men, who is assisting with the formulation of plans.

SPRINGFIELDERS COME NEXT WEEK

Headed by City Manager Charles E. Ashburner, one hundred and forty-nine members of the Springfield Commercial club have signed for the "Let's Get Acquainted" trip of the Springfield Commercial club on Wednesday, October 7th. The Springfield delegation will arrive in Washington at 12:30 o'clock if the train is running on schedule time and will be met at the station by a local committee.

The contract has been signed with a large motion picture concern for a film showing the principal events of the trip. Each town will be represented in this picture. Later the film will be shown at each point on the itinerary.

Letters have been received from Congressman J. D. Post and Representative Reid at Washington C. H. stating that local arrangements have been about completed and that the visitors will be assured of a hearty reception.

In order that Washington may be well represented in the motion picture it is requested that everybody make a special effort to be on the principal street when the delegation arrives and to insure everybody being shown in the picture.

FUTURE ACTION IS NOT DECIDED

Up to the present time George Cox & Son, whose livery barn was destroyed by fire several weeks ago, have not decided what action they will take in regard to rebuilding, and are still open to lease propositions looking toward rebuilding the block and converting it into a modern business structure.

Messrs. Cox may yet sell the site and remains of the barn upon it, but so far nothing definite is settled.

Thursday morning, Mr. Cox stated that if the proper lease is made, a new block may be erected the coming spring.

MAY OPEN FACTORY IN NEARBY TOWN

The further contemplated branching out of the local Inskip Manufacturing Concern is announced by the Wilmington Journal, which says: "Messrs. Woodmansee and Jackson, representing a glove concern, were here one day recently to consult with the officers of the Commercial club about the prospects of starting a factory here. The company which they represent has factories at Springfield and Washington C. H., and also at Marion, Ill. They made it plain to the men with whom they talked that the company does not desire a factory built for them, and that they do not ask for concessions. The thing they care most to know is, can they depend upon securing one hundred women to work in the factory, should they decide to start in Wilmington. The club will take up the matter and see what prospects there are for securing female labor in the town and community."

JOY RIDERS

DAMAGE CAR

Six young men, said to be members of prominent families of Sabina, are now preparing to go down into their pockets and pay heavy damage inflicted upon a new six-cylinder automobile owned by Fred Cole, of Sabina.

The boys, a few nights ago, took the car from the garage and went on a joy ride, with the result that a spring was broken, the engine badly damaged, and the fine car otherwise damaged.

The owner learned that the car had been taken from the garage, and started on a hunt, succeeding in locating the car west of Wilmington.

In order to prevent prosecution the sextette of hilarious youngsters agreed to pay all damage to the car and to refrain from repeating the offense.

NEW PASTOR FOR EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The local Episcopal church has employed a new pastor, Rev. Eugene C. Prosser, of St. Peter, Minn., where he has had charge of the Episcopal church for some time.

Rev. Prosser will preach at the local church, which is located in the Y. M. C. A. block, and also at Wilmington. He is a young man, splendidly equipped for his chosen work, and comes highly recommended.

He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, and for a couple of years was engaged in newspaper work. For several years he was chorister in one of the largest churches in Minnesota. He will preach in Wilmington Sunday, and in this city on the following Sunday.

WILL RETURN HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

Mr. J. A. Maples, prohibition worker, who addressed an audience at the Empire Opera House Tuesday night, will be in the city to speak on the street, Saturday night, according to arrangements announced Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Maples proved himself such an able and entertaining speaker that the committee immediately took action to bring him back so that more of the citizens might enjoy the opportunity of hearing him.

FORMAL OPENING OF THE GYM TONIGHT

Today is the date set for the formal opening of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and marks the beginning of work in the physical training classes, which will continue throughout the winter under the direction of Physical Director J. W. McClung.

Training of the Women's Physical Culture club starts tonight at the Armory hall. Friday night the Young Men's class meets at the Y. M. C. A. for first instruction.

MR. J. A. MAPLES, OF VIRGINIA

Will again address the people of Fayette County on the STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION AMENDMENT

Many who heard Mr. Maples here last Tuesday night say he delivered one of the wittiest addresses ever heard in Washington. The committee was urged to secure him for another speech here. State headquarters at first said that was impossible, but your Committee persisted and got this for another address. If the weather is unpleasant, this meeting will be held indoors, and further announcement made Saturday.

GREAT HUMORIST

THE TWO NEIGHBORS.

One of Them Gives His Version of the Condition of Affairs.

My neighbor owns a dog that begins barking at 10:30 o'clock at night, my retiring hour, and continues until relieved by the rooster at 4:30 in the morning. And every morning my neighbor greets me with the words, "Ain't these fine nights for sleeping?"

My neighbor harbors the aforesaid bird of dawn. This fowl is one of a flock of twenty-seven feathered bipeds of both sexes. There were twenty-nine in the flock originally, but I privately murdered and ate two of them. These chickens scratch in my garden from March 1 to Nov. 30, make a board walk of my veranda every day it doesn't snow, roost on my grape arbor and make themselves at home generally. Neighbor says, "There's nothin' I like better 'n workin' with chickens, don't you?"

My neighbor had five offspring—four boys and one in dresses yet. These amuse themselves by climbing my fruit trees, breaking my fence, stoning my aunt's white cat, playing Olympic games on my lawn, etc. Neighbor says: "Don't you just can't keep from lovin' toddlers like them there? What'd the world be without children?"

My neighbor owns a phonograph, 1896 model. It has six records—"Washington Post," "Shall We Gather at the River?" "Annie Rooney," "Listen to the Mocking Bird"—that's four, and you wouldn't believe the other two. He plays the machine only on hot nights, when the windows are open. My neighbor says: "Ain't it a wonderful invention? It's sure the marvel of the age. I never get tired listenin' to it, do you?"

My neighbor has borrowed in the last six months my jackplane, my boot-jack, my box of liver pills, my razor, my Bible, my ice cream freezer, six bars of soap and other articles. He has never returned any of them. Neighbor says, "I believe in being neighborly, don't you?"

Now I'm in a quandary, and this is what I'm quandering about: I don't want to be a grouch, but I'm at the limit of endurance. I am about to have revenge on my neighbor—I'm going to sell out and move away. Do you think I would be acting unchristianly in so doing? Give me a word of advice.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

When Flour Was Scarce.

The scarcity of flour drove the privy council to some remarkable summary recommendations in 1795. All families were begged to give up puddings and pies and the privy councilors announced that they promised to set an example by confining themselves to fish, meat, vegetables and household bread, partly made of rye. One quart of loaf a week was recommended as the maximum allowance per head, and the loaf should be put on the table for each to help himself so that there might be no waste. Rich people were urged to do without soups and gravies, to take only the prime cuts and leave the rest for the poor. The poor should be taught how to make soup and rice pudding, rice being a new food which until then had been little used.—London Chronicle.

Yes, Same Size.

He felt it would be extravagant to call in a man for a little job like replacing a broken windowpane, so he took the measurements very accurately and went to the hardware store to buy the glass.

"Quite a simple job," he explained to the storekeeper. "In fact, a child could do the thing in a few minutes."

An hour later he presented himself once more at the store, the proprietor of which greeted him cheerfully with the query:

"Same size, I suppose, sir."—Exchange.

Sudden End.

"What's Red Face?" asked Four Finger Hogan in the hotel bar at Tin Can. "I haven't seen Red Face around for some time."

A general laugh went up. Then Shotgun Simpson shook his head and said:

"Poor Red Face! He got loaded the other night, rode into Cemetery Gulch, stuck his head in the window of the Crimson Arms hotel and yelled, 'Fire! Everybody did.'—Exchange.

Ancient Eyeglasses.

"Indeed, the ancients did have eyeglasses," said the schoolgirl. "My history says, 'The Romans were extremely fond of spectacles.'—New York Post.

Enterprise.

Guest—What became of the bellhop who was here before?

Boy—He bought a weighing machine and expects to be a millionaire soon.

Guest—How's that?

Boy—He heard about people tipping the scales.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Reciprocity.

Loving Bride—Will you promise me that I shall reign in our home? Dotting Bridegroom—Yes, if you will promise me that you will not storm.—Baltimore American.

ONLY ONE CAN BE EFFECTIVE

Considerable interest is being manifested at the present time on what the result would be if both of the proposed amendments offered by the wet and dry forces should carry at the coming election, and argument has been much divided among some of those who have discussed the problem.

Some have argued that if "Prohibition of the sale, manufacture for sale and importation for sale, of intoxicating liquors as a beverage" and "Home rule on the subject of intoxicating liquors" both receive an affirmative vote greater than the negative, that both of the proposed amendments, of an entirely opposite nature, will become a part of the Ohio constitution, and that a peculiar condition of affairs would be the result.

However, according to those who have investigated the matter thoroughly, a constitutional provision has anticipated such a condition of affairs and has provided that in a case where two amendments of an opposite or conflicting character, are adopted, then the amendment having the greatest vote really becomes the winning amendment, and the other is lost.

THE SALE OF TITLES.

Brazil Has a Hospital That Was Built Upon Man's Vanity.

Dom Pedro II., who lost the throne of Brazil in 1889, was the last monarch to offer titles for sale. In order to obtain funds for the erection of a hospital in Rio de Janeiro the emperor announced that he would confer the title of "baron" on every subscriber of 100,000 milreis and the title of "count" on every subscriber of 250,000 milreis. Many proved willing to become ennobled on these terms, and sufficient money was forthcoming to endow the hospital as well as build it. Over the main entrance may still be seen the inscription, suggested by Dom Pedro, "Human Vanity to Human Misery."

Although French titles of nobility were abolished at the time of the revolution by a decree that was revived in 1871, yet the ministry of justice issues certificates of nobility. Members of the French diplomatic service who use titles have to obtain one of these certificates and pay stiffly for the transaction. The fees in the case of a duke amount to $2,400, a marquis pays $2,000, a viscount $1,400, a baron $300 and a chevalier $200.

The certificate is to the effect that the pedigree of the holder having been investigated, his claim to the title he bears has been fully established, and the seal of the republic is affixed to this patent of nobility.—Chicago News

A Queer Legal Precedent.

Mr. Justice Holmes has the reputation of citing more peculiar cases from the old lawbooks than any other member of the supreme court. He dug up one recently to the amusement of his associates, when it was contended in a libel suit that the declaration was insufficient because the offenses were not stated properly.

"That leads me to recall a case to the old books," said the justice, "where an indictment set forth that the accused struck a man on the head, splitting the skull until a portion fell down on either shoulder, and the court held the indictment defective because it did not allege that the man was killed." The justice observed that it was a hair splitting decision and he didn't intend it as a pun, either.—New York Times.

RECAPTURE TOWN HELD BY GERMANS

Rennencamp's Men Successful In Russian Poland.

FIGHTING EXTREMELY SEVERE

Austrians and Russians Suffer Tremendous Losses in the Battle Now Raging at Tarnow—Russian Advance Guard in Hungary More Than Half Way to Budapest—Servians Again Occupy Semlin.

London, Oct. 1.—An official statement issued by the Russian war office announces that General Rennencamp's army has reoccupied Augustowo, in Russian Poland, after extremely severe fighting with the Germans. This information is held to certify to the retreat of the German army of General Von Midenburg from the province of Suwalki as a result of the battle which has been raging since Sunday morning along a front extending from Grodno to Druszenki, on the Niemen river.

Augustowo is in Suwalki, in Russian Poland, 140 miles northeast of Warsaw. The Augustowo canal commences there, connecting the Vistula river with the Niemen.

The fighting around Augustowo has been exceptionally intense for several days. The Germans occupied the town, which is a short distance from the Russo-East Prussian frontier, about two weeks ago.

The battle at Tarnow, forty-eight miles east of Cracow, and an important railroad center, continues. Both Austrians and Russians have suffered tremendous losses.

In St. Petersburg it is generally believed that the advance guard of the Russian force which entered Hungary through the Dukla pass is now more than half way to Budapest. This invading army has thus far met with little serious opposition, and military experts assert that Austria must immediately withdraw a considerable part of the troops she has operating against Serbia and throw this strength in the path of the Russians.

Support of this contention is found in the announcement that the Servians again captured Semlin, across the Drina from Belgrade. It is presumed that the Austrians have already commenced the withdrawal of some of their soldiers from that quarter of operations.

DEPOSED SULTAN IS "HORRIFIED"

Bordeaux, Oct. 1.—Abdul Aziz, the deposed Sultan of Morocco, has added his name to the list of those protesting against reported atrocities committed by the Germans in the invasion of France and Belgium. "I am horrified," said the exiled ruler, "at the accounts given in the press of German practices."

HUNGARIANS OCCUPY PASS IN CARPATHIANS

London, Oct. 1.—An official message issued in Budapest states that the Hungarians have recaptured Uzok pass, in the Carpathians.

REFUGEES REACH CITY OF HAVANA

Havana, Oct. 1.—Many hundreds of refugees arrived here from Mexico City by way of Vera Cruz. Among them were several prominent bankers who were anxious to tell what they knew of outrages which they said were perpetrated by the soldiers and officers of President Carranza's army. Among the bankers were Enrique Creel, Juan Terrazas, Oscar Tomas and Alberto Braniff. They told stories of nightly raids and depredations made by the Carranzistas upon houses in the Mexican capital. Among the refugees were also sixteen priests and twenty-two nuns.

Body to Decide Whether He Is to Retire or Fight Villa.

CONSTITUTIONALISTS CONVENE

Resignation of the Head of the Present Government in Mexico Placed Before the Convention—Peace Commission Sent North to Treat With Villa—Catholic Appeal Reaches the President and Secretary of State.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Carranza will let the Constitutional convention, which convened in Mexico City today, decide whether he is to retire to private life or lead the fight against Villa, according to a statement issued by the Constitutionalist first chief given out at the agency here.

Carranza has authorized the agency to announce that his resignation as leader of the Constitutionalist movement and head of the present government in Mexico will go before the convention. Should the convention

INQUIRY IS POSTPONED

Washington, Oct. 1.—There will be no investigation of the campaign expenditures made in behalf of Roger Sullivan in Illinois and Senator Boies Penrose in Pennsylvania, as proposed by a senate resolution introduced by Senator Norris recently, at least until after election. The explanation given out was that to order the investigation before the election would cast a cloud upon Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Penrose which might be used by their political enemies in the campaign now on, and that there would not be time enough to establish the truth or falsity of the charges until after the election.

COAL OPERATORS WILL NOT ACCEPT

Denver, Oct. 1.—J. F. Welborn, president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, issued a statement reiterating that the operators of the Colorado coal fields could not accept the peace proposal indorsed by President Wilson.

accept it, Carranza announces that he will retire to private life at once. Should they refuse it, he will lead the forces at his disposal to combat with what he terms "the new reactionary movement" led by Villa.

Carranza, in his communication to Washington, states that the so called Torreon agreement, with the violation of which he is charged by Villa, was never binding upon him in its proposed covenants. He asserts that he never gave the terms of the Torreon agreement his approval, and that it was understood by the parties to that agreement that it was to have no force unless sanctioned by Carranza.

A peace commission has been sent north to treat with General Villa, according to Carranza's statement. This peace commission, it is understood, will meet Villa or his representative at Aguascalientes.

An appeal in behalf of members of the Catholic clergy in Mexico was made to President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan by a committee representing the American Federation of Catholic societies of America. The president and Secretary Bryan asked the delegation to submit to the department in writing a scheme of precisely what they would like to have the United States government do. The department will then take this request under consideration.

BORAH ATTACKS ANTI-TRUST BILL

Washington, Oct. 1.—Senator Borah of Idaho attacked the Clayton anti-trust bill conference report in the senate as a phase of the tendency to take government out of the control of the people and center it in commissions of individuals. He declared that the Clayton bill is nothing more than an aid to the federal trade commission.

Explaining his opposition to what he called a tendency to restrict popular government, the senator quoted from a speech of President Wilson before his inauguration in which the latter stated that he did not believe in commission forms of government and that he would not submit government to any form of trusteeship.

Already, Senator Borah asserted, the railroads had been turned over to the interstate commerce commission, the banks to a federal reserve commission and industrial affairs to a trade commission.

MAY SEND U. S. VESSEL TO GERMANY

Lack of Materials Embarrassing Manufacturers Here.

Washington, Oct. 1.—As a result of a conference of commercial interests and government officials held in Washington, an American ship probably will be chartered to go to Germany for a cargo of materials the lack of which is now embarrassing American manufacturers.

Ever since the war began American industries dependent upon German products have been seriously threatened owing to the difficulties of getting any goods from Germany. The materials involved are dyestuffs, medicine, textiles, leather, paints, inks, pharmaceutical chemicals, cyanide, sugar beet seeds and potash. The cotton industry is on the verge of serious stoppage for the lack of dyes; drug manufacturers are confronting a famine of pharmaceutical chemicals and the mining industry is feeling the lack of cyanide supplies.

Tentative arrangements have been made with the Berlin government for the execution of the American plan for getting the much needed materials from Germany. The conference was called by the state department after word was received that Germany would co-operate in the plan.

Where was Wales? Spencer Leigh Hughes, M. P., tells of the following amusing experience: He was once passing the war office building in Whitehall when his companion, a Scotchman, pointing to the emblematic devices engraved over the door, indicated the Scotch thistle, the English lion and the Irish harp. "Where is the emblem of Wales?" asked his friend. "Oh," Mr. Hughes replied, "I expect there is a leak in the roof."—London Express.

Beginning War. There was a great difference in the manner of commencing a war centuries ago to what there is now. Now the blow is frequently struck before the word, and there is no obligation to issue a formal declaration at all, the act of war constituting the declaration. But in medieval times no war ever began without a formal declaration by a herald, who in a most leisurely manner breathed defiance on the part of his royal master, exchanged innumerable bows with his enemies and departed in as dignified a manner as he came.—London Chronicle.

Newspaper Advertising

Goes direct to the people and the people constitute the buying public. Newspaper advertising not only talks but it emphasizes; it has the undivided attention of the reader and covers a field no salesman can hope to reach. There are many styles in newspaper advertising and the small announcement, which costs only five cents, is just as effective in its way as the larger one, which costs proportionately more. The benefits to be derived can not be measured by the size of the ad, for the very good reason that the small, inexpensive announcement invariably proves effective. Newspaper advertising costs from five cents up to any price the advertiser desires to pay.

Directum I. captured both heats, but

COROT'S BIG HEART.

An Incident Illustrating the Great Artist's Generosity.

Corot, the great French landscape artist, was a man of the temperament traditionally associated with genius—irritable, impetuous, careless, generous and lovable. M. Albert Dubuisson, whose father was the great painter's friend, has published some interesting remembrances of him in the Studio, in which he tells of a day he spent with the artist in his studio, when a knock at the door—the last straw after several really annoying interruptions—caused Corot to fling the door open abruptly with flushed face and fire in his eye.

"What is it now? Come in! Who are you? What do you come and disturb me for?" he demanded angrily.
The caller much disconcerted, stammered his explanation:
"I came, M. Corot—I—it's about an accident. A workman engaged on the building has had a fall. His condition is very grave. They have just taken him off to the hospital. We know the poor chap. He's a workman who leaves a wife and four children.
We are getting up a subscription among the lodgers in the building for the family. I thought you would perhaps like to join us."

Corot's expressive countenance showed clearly his quick regret for his roughness to the messenger and his deepening sympathy for the injured man. He made prompt amends.
"The poor fellow!" he exclaimed.
"The unfortunate family—a wife and four children! We must do everything that is possible to help them. Now how can I be of use to you—I who only know how to amuse myself with painting trees and streams? They must be assured food and shelter, and they'll need money. Here! You see that little bureau? Do you mind going to the first drawer? Good! Now take out what you think necessary, and I beg you not to use too much discretion. My back is turned, and I won't look. You can't think how glad I am to be allowed to share in your kind efforts on their behalf."

Obedient these directions, the visitor opened the drawer and paused thunderstruck, for it was full of gold and bills, tossed in helter skelter as the artist had received them. With some embarrassment, while Corot worked busily at his easel, the visitor helped himself to as large a sum as his conscience permitted him to take, murmured his thanks and departed. Corot never inquired what he had taken or looked to see, although, indeed, he would not have known if he had.

A DISTRACTED BARD.

I wooed her in lambe feet,
In flowing measures anapestic.
I sang her praises, called her sweet,
In dactyls dainty yet majestic.
I tuned a choriambe lyre
And hymned her till my throat was choky.
I told her of love's ardent fire
In lines where danced the tripping trochee.

Then the grave spondee I essayed,
Yet in it made my passion graphic.
Last I besought the cruel maid
In many an adoring sapphire.
Behold the climax of my woes!
My eyes with tears of sorrow glisten.
She writes, "If you'll come down to prose Perhaps"—tis underscored—"I'll listen!"

U. S. SENATE WANTS TO KNOW

Washington, Oct. 1.—A demand to know if Great Britain is interfering with shipments of copper from the United States to Rotterdam in neutral bottoms was made on the secretary of state by unanimous vote of the senate. A resolution requesting the information was introduced by Senator Smoot of Utah and was passed without discussion.

The resolution was the result of a protest from the International Metal Selling company, which stated that the British were interfering with copper shipments to Holland in neutral bottoms. In urging his resolution Senator Smoot said that the copper business has already been hard hit by the war without any such action by Great Britain to make it worse.

REPAID THE FAVOR.

Grant Did Not Forget the Man Who Did Him a Good Turn.

"General Grant's most pronounced characteristic, perhaps, was his reward of the friends who had stood by him in his early days," said Colonel S.
A. Holmes of St. Louis. "While Grant was doing the best he could after he had quit the army and was down and out he wanted to get the job of county surveyor of St. Louis county. This job was in the keeping of the three county judges, and Grant could get only one of them to vote for him, so he didn't get the place.

"After the war, when Grant was serving his first term as president, a delegation of Missourians visited the White House to urge the appointment of a St. Louis man for collector of internal revenue, the most lucrative position in the state. Grant listened to the arguments and looked over the petition presented. Then he scratched his head and remarked:

"Isn't there an old fellow out there of the name of Long, who used to be a judge of the county court?"
"Nobody in the delegation could recall Long, but Grant told them to go back and find out. Some time later he was told that Judge Long was still living in the county, but was not conspicuous.

"Get up a petition for him," advised the president, "and I will appoint him internal revenue collector."
"The friends of Long lost no time in presenting the requested petition, and the old judge was appointed.
"Grant had never forgotten the favor done him when he was less prosperous."—Washington Post.

No Second Calls.

One day the office bell sent forth a shrill jingle and the office boy hastened in, as far as haste was in him, to answer it. After a suitable interval he re-entered the inner office and said:
"A client wishes to see you, sir."
"An old client or a new one?" asked the lawyer.
"A new one, of course," answered the boy.—Stray Stories.

Guide Lines.

"What do you think of those straight lines they have marked in the streets for pedestrians?" asked the promoter of civic welfare.
"They are not needed in our family," replied young Mrs. Torkins in superior tones. "Charley, dear, doesn't drink a drop."—Washington Star.

SOAPING A GEYSER.

Feed That Roused the Fury of the Sleeping Wairoa.

Some of the larger geysers in New Zealand will not play unless they are soaped—a process only occasionally allowed, as too much soaping weakens the geyser. Paul Gooding in "Picturesque New Zealand" describes the soaping of a geyser named Wairoa, he being present at the ceremony. The author states that the officiating priestess was a Maori known as Kathleen, who was clothed in a flax mat completely covered with raka, rivi and pigeon feathers:
"The caretaker approached Kathleen with a big white bag in hand. It was half full of yellow soap cut into small cubes.

"Are you ready, Kathleen?" he asked.

"Yes," she promptly answered.

"Taking out two or three handfuls of soap, the caretaker threw them into Wairoa's deep throat and then handed the bag to Kathleen. Grasping the string handle at the bottom of the bag, she opened the mouth, and out poured a saponaceous stream.

"Ten minutes passed, but there was only a slight increase in the volume of steam at Wairoa's mouth, and there were no subterranean signs of an imminent eruption. Fifteen, twenty minutes passed with very little change.

"When thirty minutes had gone there was a rumble, then a splash of water.
The people near the geyser backed away. Two or three more splashes followed, and each was higher than its predecessor; then came a hoarse roar, a rush of steam, and up past a low sulphur dyed sinter wall flashed a column of water carrying up clouds of steam. Soap, just common washing soap, had conquered Wairoa and forced it from its lair. Up it continued to go—fifty, sixty, eighty, 120 feet.

"Wairoa would have gone higher if it hadn't been for the wind," the caretaker told me. "It has been known to go 180 feet."

"While Wairoa played it played magnificently. In its shaft it rumbled.
It flung its hot breath upon the ventured, and for more than 100 feet around it snowed the ground until the earth trembled. For ten minutes it rose and fell. Then down it went,

like a thermometer on a frosty night,
until it was a mere splasher."

Another Way to Get Even.

"I want to sue Dr. Blank for heavy damages!" said the angry citizen entering the lawyer's office.

"What has he done?" asked the attorney.

"When he operated on me he left a pair of surgical scissors in me. How much can I sue him for?"

"Oh, don't sue him at all," counseled the lawyer; "just send him a bill for storage."—Ladies' Home Journal.

1700 JAPANESE KILLED

By Associated Press.

Peking, China, October 1.—A German report from Tsing-Tau, the fortified position of the Kiao-Chow territory, sent by carrier pigeon to Tsinan, in Shan-Tung, province, and thence to Peking by telegraph, indicates that the German retirement from the second line of defense around Tsing-Tau, which took place last Monday, was due to the overwhelming numerical strength of the Japanese.

Continuing, this report says that the Japanese losses were 1700 killed and 800 wounded, a result of the fire from German warships, coupled with the fire of machine guns on land. The German losses are described as small.

At the German legation in Peking it was said today that Germans caused the destruction, early this week, of the railroad bridge at Ta-Yu-He, six miles west of Wei-Hsien and that they will cause other bridges to be dynamited if the Japanese continue their westward movement. They will dynamite also all the government buildings at Tsing-Tau when a further defense of that place becomes impossible. The Japanese legation here today expressed the belief that the troops now attacking Tsing-Tau would await the arrival of siege guns.

ANOTHER LINK FORGED IN NOTED CASE

By Associated Press.

Cincinnati, O., October 1.—Another link was forged today in the long drawn out chain of litigation that followed the filing of the suit of Thomas McKell, Chillicothe, Ohio, banker, against the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad. For the third time an appeal has been made to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for a reversal of the findings of the lower court. The transcript of record was filed today in the upper court by attorneys for the railroad. The last trial of the case in the District court resulted in an award of $125,000 damages to Mrs. Jean D. McKell, widow of the original plaintiff. The suit is an outgrowth of a dispute over a contract made by McKell with the C. & O. for hauling coal from lands in West Virginia, which were acquired by the bank.

FIGHT QUESTION INVOLVING U. S.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Shipment of the hydroplane, America, to England from New York, on the Mauretania, has raised a new question of international law. If classified as munition of war, the aeroplane would be subject merely to seizure, as contraband. Should it be classed as a warship, the United States might be charged with responsibility for its departure from a neutral port.

HIGH SCHOOL SONGS IN BOOKLET FORM

The newly organized Boys' and Girls' Glee clubs of the Washington High schools have been presented by the students of the High school with booklets containing the High school songs and cheers for 1914.

The booklet was compiled by Miss Elizabeth Sheen, supervisor of music of the public schools and holds an arrangement of popular college songs adapted for local High school use. All of the songs which have been used by the Glee clubs under Miss Sheen's direction are included and the booklet will be a decided acquisition to the High school music.

In the past it has been difficult to secure enough copies of the words to go around and the desired effect of High school cheers and songs has been sometimes defeated by the fact that the words were not clearly sung.

The entire collection evinces that college spirit which makes everything go with a swing, and is taken up in the popular athletic cheer.

"Washington! Washington! We will beat—great. This is where they meet their fate. Washington! Washington! Meet them, greet them, badly beat them—Washington!"

MAY STEWART HERE NEXT WEEK

Late Thursday afternoon the Washington lodge of Elks signed contracts securing the distinguished young artist, May Stewart and her company for two performances during next week, Wednesday and Thursday nights, October 7th and 8th.

The Elks have been instrumental in bringing many good things to Washington and a crowded house is always the rule. Miss Stewart is one of the foremost legitimate actresses of the American stage among the younger class, supported by the most expensive company of the kind will be one of the most talked of events of the season.

She will present two different plays—a production of each, perhaps of "Lucrezia Borgia" by Victor Hugo, and "Romeo and Juliet", by Shakespeare.

A carload of scenery and effects will be used and more than $3000 worth of wardrobe displayed each night.

SMACKS cigars once smoked, always a pocket companion; neatly packed for that purpose, and scrupulously clean.

EVERY DAY XMAS AT THE POSTOFFICE

The popularity of Uncle Sam's parcel post system is on the increase, and in the local postoffice this fact is demonstrated beyond a doubt, as the never ending stream of incoming and outgoing packages pour in and out of the office.

Parcel Post Carrier Henry D. Smith is finding an increase in the number of packages delivered in the city, and at times his automobile resembles a Santa Claus pack.

The rural carriers are finding an increased number of packages to handle, and the volume of parcel post mail is increasing so that within the next two or three years special wagons may be required to facilitate delivery.

LEAVES MAY LAY ON THE SIDEWALK

As a result of conflicting orders regarding the sweeping of leaves from the sidewalks about the court house lawn, there is liable to be an accumulation of the leaves about the sidewalks unless city employees remove them.

Heretofore the court house janitor has done the sweeping, but recently, it is claimed, he was ordered by one of the city officials to desist, and has done so.

So far there has been no definite arrangement between the county and city for keeping the sidewalks free from the falling leaves, and the walks are very likely to soon present a decidedly rustic appearance.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

A spirited meeting at the high school Wednesday afternoon resulted in the organization, for the present season, of a high school athletic association. Fred Pine was elected president, Clyde Davis secretary and treasurer, and Emerson Chapman was unanimously chosen yell leader.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS LONDON NOVEMBER 7

Coach Schlabach, of the High school football squad has arranged a game with London high school, to be played on the grounds of the latter Saturday, November 7. Several other games are being arranged and a complete schedule will be submitted soon. It is possible that negotiations may be made to have London come here for a Thanksgiving day game.

FARMERS BUSY SOWING WHEAT

From one side of Fayette county to the other the farmers by the hundreds are busily engaged in sowing one of the largest acreages of wheat ever sown in the county. All are expecting top prices next year, and with this in mind, every available acre is being seeded in expectation of a paying crop next season.

The drill is following the progress of the corn cutters in a majority of the fields, so that when the corn is cut the wheat sowing is finished a few hours later.

The weather conditions are ideal and all farmers are taking advantage of the opportunity to get their wheat in the ground.

FARMER INJURED IN RUNAWAY MISHAP

William Blazer, of upper Ross Co., was seriously injured Wednesday, when a team of horses attached to a wheat drill ran off and the man was hurled under the sharp discs, dragged for a considerable distance, and finally badly cut and bruised when the drill passed over him.

Physicians who attended him express the belief that he will recover within a few weeks, unless the injuries are more serious than at first believed.
